Indonesia reported inflation of 0.10% MoM (+1.38% YoY) in February 2021, compared to the previous month of 0.26% MoM (+1.55% YoY). Inflation eased further to the lowest level in six-month, due to the slowdown in volatile food price. With the pandemic still weighing on economic activity, inflation pressure is likely to remain weak, thereby warranting continued monetary policy accommodation. However, Bank Indonesia (BI) maintained its policy rate at 3.50% as BI concerns about IDR stability and capital outflows. In line with BI move, banks maintained the time deposit rates at the range of 3.00% - 4.00% per annum and the IDR Money Market Fund booked return of +0.12% in March 2021.

FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Fund managers maintain a selective approach to risk taking with overall preference for credit over equities remains in place. However, the managers have moved to a more positive view on equities and have been selectively adding to parts of the market that have lagged and have more upside potential while offering an attractive yield. Over the month, they rotated some exposure from investment grade bonds and emerging market local currency debt into equities against a backdrop of market volatility and rising real yields. Within equities, they added to UK equities, where the Brexit resolution, as well as the better than anticipated vaccine roll-out and economic data support the outlook. They also added to US energy equities. Energy is one of the sectors that has lagged in the rally and stands to benefit from economic recovery. On the currency management side, the team added back to Japanese Yen.
