FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

In April 2022, IDR CII Equity Fund booked positive performance of +2% mom, below the benchmark performance (MXID +4.7% mom, MXCN -3.9% mom, MXIN -0.8% mom). Last month, China & India equity markets posted a correction, especially & significantly the China market, driven by intensifying lockdown in China, increasing inflationary pressure globally followed by central banks' more hawkish stance and continuing uncertainty from Russia-Ukraine war. On the other hand, Indonesia equity market posted positive return driven by IDR40trn net foreign inflow, driven by Indonesia unique position as net commodity exporter & strong corporate earnings results in 1Q22. Going forward, Indonesia, China & India equity market volatility may continue in near-term, depending on development of global and domestic risk factors such as global inflationary pressure and subsequent policy reaction by central banks globally, lockdown situation in China, global liquidity situation, and geopolitical situation.
