FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

The managers took profits from the position in Italian equities, reduced the exposure to energy equities and added to global and European dividend equities. Dividends have lagged earnings growth, and low payout ratios, coupled with higher inflation improve the outlook for these strategies. Elsewhere, they sold Singapore equities and added to broader ASEAN equities. A US homebuilders hedge was sold and a short position in European basic resources purchased. Within fixed income, the managers sold Asian investment grade bonds. Instead, they purchased sustainable Japan income equities. They also reduced the exposure to US high yield due to tighter valuations. The rotation from emerging market hard currency debt to local currency debt continued.
