FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Economic data released in July painted a slowing global economy while inflation remains elevated. As widely anticipated, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) hiked interest rates by 75bps in July. Fed chairman Powell also highlighted that the pace of policy tightening is likely to slow down moving forward (data dependent). Bond yields fell in July on the back of softening economic data in the US, prompting investors to weigh potentially more moderate interest rate rises moving forward. Market will continue to place attention over rising inflation, interest rate hikes, slowing growth and geopolitical tension in the second half of 2022. The reopening of borders will however see higher demand for services as tourism and traveling gain pace with Covid-related restrictions easing, providing the much-needed tailwind to support global economies as we move into the second half of 2022. The Advanced portfolios have put in place a tactical exposure to Asia Ex-Japan equities on the back of the reopening of ASEAN economies as well as attractive valuations of Chinese stocks while continuing to stay diversified and slightly underweight equities.
