FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

In May 2023, IDR Equity Fund booked performance of -1.14% mom, above the benchmark performance. Consumer Discretionary was the largest positive contributor, while Energy was the largest negative contributor. Last month, global equity market generally posted negative performance due to concern on China's sluggish economic recovery which also put pressure on commodity prices as well as due to intensifying US debt ceiling issue. Domestic equity market also closed lower, in line with this global correction trend, mainly driven by correction in commodities sector, although net foreign inflows continued to be positive at IDR1.7trn. Going forward, we continue to believe that the potential of sustainable and structural improvement in Indonesian economy in the long-run, with rising GDP/capita will become positive tailwind for Indonesian equity return growth in medium-to-long-term horizon.
