FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

In February 2025, the IDR China India Indonesia Equity Fund recorded a return of -7.61%. Despite this significant decline, the fund successfully outperformed its benchmark. The MSCI Indonesia Index experienced the largest decline, dropping more than 14% due to substantial corrections in large-cap banking and consumer staples sectors, each declining by over 15% month-on-month. Additionally, the Indian market saw a correction of approximately 6%, driven primarily by muted investor flows and earnings results below market expectations. Conversely, MSCI China delivered a robust positive return of +14.9%, supported by rapid advancements in artificial intelligence technology. Moving forward, we see attractive valuation opportunities emerging in the Indonesian market following this correction, with equity risk premiums currently approaching historical highs. We maintain a constructive outlook on Chinese technology companies, recognizing their competitive positioning against U.S. counterparts. However, we remain cautious regarding the Indian market due to elevated valuations and limited EPS growth potential.
